

European experience of managing knowledge transfer challenges between industrial enterprises, research centers and higher education

© A.M. Nekrasov

Bauman Moscow State Technical University, Moscow, 105005, Russia

Main problems in the knowledge transfer management between universities, research organizations and industry in the European Union were investigated. The current practices of solving problems arising in knowledge transfer in Europe were considered. Future innovative ways to enhance the attractiveness of the economy of the United Europe were studied.

Keywords: knowledge transfer, innovation, intellectual property, research and development (R&D), Europe, industry.

Nekrasov A.M., Assoc. Professor of the department of Entrepreneurship and Foreign Economic Activities of Bauman Moscow State Technical University, Ph.D. (Edu). Author of 6 publications in the field of the organization education management process of professional life-long training in a technical university and transfer of knowledge in industry. e-mail: alex.nek10@gmail.com